ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A communication network includes peripheral cards in the backplane that are individually connected using separate interface cables to the system controller for individual isolation to provide full duplex/half duplex radially distributed serial control bus architecture with high level data link control (HDLC) bus interface which provides for collision detection, fault isolation and peripheral card communication fault recovery.

5